STOCKHOLM, July 18.

SWEDISH VICTORY.

ONLY four days ago we were all filled with alarm for the safety of our king, and the remains of our fleets, while the grief of our recent loss was general and unaffected; but there were not wanting those who had full confidence that the known intrepidity of our king and the prince, his brother, added to their superior abilities, would yet insure to us the laurels of victory.

The event has shewn their opinions were well founded; for baron Stiernbald, his majesty's adjutant, who arrived here yesterday, has brought dispatches to her majesty, containing the happy tidings, that the king has gained a complete victory over the Ruſſian fleet of gallies at Schwenksund.

The king having re-fitted his fleet with the utmoſt diſpatch, after his retreat to Schwenksund, ſailed again in queſt of the prince of Naſſau's fleet, which he came up with on the 9th of July, in the morning.

The action commenced about half paſt nine in the morning, and continued without intermiſſion till 12 o'clock at night, maintained with much obſtinacy and firmneſs on both ſides. The fleets for ſome time could only take aim at each other, by directing their fire to that quarter where they ſaw the flaſh occaſioned by the diſcharge of the other's guns. But they now ceaſed, as if by mutual conſent, on both ſides.

The men were ordered immediately to get ſome refreſhments, and to loſe no time in making ſuch repairs as were practicable in a ſhort ſpace of time, as the king was determined not to allow the fleets to ſeparate with any appearance of its having been a drawn battle.

Accordingly the attack was again renewed about two o'clock in the morning with as much vigour as ever, and continued till nine. The conduct and courage of the king, who commanded in perſon, and the able ſupport he received from lieutenant-colonel Cronſtadt, at laſt determined the victory in our favour; and the Ruſſians were entirely defeated.

We loſt on our part, two gun boats, blown up, and one, Udemia, a large veſſel, which was ſunk by a bomb, the crew were ſaved.

We conſider it as a good omen here, that the day on which we gained this important victory over the Ruſſians, was the 28th anniverſary of the empreſs of Ruſſia's acceſſion to the throne.

The following is an official account of the Ruſſian frigates and gallies taken or deſtroyed on the 9th and 10th of July.

Maria frigate, 38 guns, overſet and loſt; Catharine, ditto, ditto, aground, but can be repaired; Conſtantia, ditto, ditto, ditto, Alexander, ditto, ditto, ditto, St. Nicholas, ditto, ditto, ſunk; Peterſburg galley, ſhot between wind and water, but can be repaired; five gallies, one ſunk, four taken; No. 4 galley, with three 18 pounders, taken, and repairable; one galley ſunk; No. 5 galley, one 24 pounder, and two 12 pounders, ſtranded; one galley, with two 24 pounders, and three 12 pounders, aſhore, but repairable; No. 8 galley; one galley, with three 18 pounders, and two 8 pounders, ditto; one ditto, ſunk; No. 2 galley, ſunk; one hemniema, repairable; one chebeck, uſeleſs; two galliſes, one repairable; one brigantine, ſunk; four galliots, one ſunk, and three repairable; one tſchuike, repairable; two floating batteries, ſunk, eight 30 pounders each; four cutters, taken; two gun ſhallops, ſunk; two advice ſhallops, taken.

Moſt of them had guns from 12 to 30 pounders, and the greateſt part carrying 30 each, of different calibres. One hundred and ten officers, and 2000 men, are made priſoners; amongſt which are the Ruſſian Brigadier Denſlow, and the prince of Naſſau's flag captain. Trophies, &c. are bringing in every moment.

Given on board the Amphion, at anchor at Schwenkſund, the 10th of July, 1790.

BERLIN, July 24.

In regard to our military operations againſt Auſtria, they remain in the ſame ſituation as for the laſt month paſt. The moſt intelligent people look for peace as certain, and this opinion is confirmed by a letter from the prince royal of Pruſſia to his brother prince Louis. The letter is as follows:

"MY BROTHER!

"IT is not a very uſual circumſtance for princes of Pruſſia to be much acquainted with the ſecrets of ſtate negotiation; but I will acquaint thee with what I know. A peace with king Leopold is as good as concluded; his majeſty has given way in moſt of the principal objects in diſpute, and the reſt will ſoon be amicably ſettled. We expect to return to Berlin in Auguſt, but the king will firſt go to Breſlau, where ſome grand entertainments will be given. I do not exactly know how things ſtand with Ruſſia, but this you may be aſſured of, that ſhould the empreſs dare to ſet a foot in Poland, ſhe will have us immediately about her ears."

PORTSMOUTH, Auguſt 3.

Whilſt warlike preparations go on with the greateſt ardour, the maſter general of the ordnance is carrying on, as uſual, the fortifications, with many neceſſary and uſeful buildings, particularly a new armoury on the gun wharf, capable of containing 100,000 ſtand of ſmall arms.

The entrance of this elegant edifice is to be adorned with the arms and crown of Spain, carved in ſtone, and of exquiſite workmanſhip, taken from the gate of the Moro Caſtle, at the Havanna.

This noble trophy of war, which was brought home in 1762, and has been caſed in cedar wood ever ſince, weighs near three tuns, and is to be placed under the Britiſh arms and crown.

LONDON, Auguſt 3.

Yeſterday baron Nolcken, the Swediſh ambaſſador, received letters from Stockholm, that contain, among other things, an official account of the late diſaſter to the Swediſh fleet. The baron ſent the contents of his diſpatches to the duke of Leeds at Mimms.

Aug. 7. No leſs than three different meſſengers, within half an hour of one another, were ſent to the king at Windſor on Thurſday evening. One of the diſpatches was ſaid to be from Madrid, another from Berlin, and the third from Stockholm. News of the greateſt importance, it is confidently reported, is come from the continent.

Gambling policies were yeſterday opened at Lloyd's coffee-houſe, offering 10 guineas premium to receive 100 ſhould a war with Spain take place in three months.

Notwithſtanding the preſent pacific appearances, it is however, to be obſerved, that the preparations in our army and navy are not in the ſmalleſt degree ſuſpended; a proof of the extreme caution with which they are viewed by the miniſtry.

On Saturday ſe'nnight, an old miſs, turned the wrong ſide of 40, ran off with a young lieutenant in the navy, on a matrimonial trip to Scotland.—What heightens this romance is, that the lady was perfectly at her own diſpoſal; yet, notwithſtanding that, could be prevailed on to make her exit, no other way than by means of a ladder, from a two pair of ſtairs window in her own houſe, about the hour of 12 o'clock at night—Her fortune is very conſiderable, ſaid to exceed ſeventy thouſand pounds!

A new religious ſect has lately ſprung up in Moorfields. They call themſelves the ſociety of Shadrach, Meſhach and Abednego, from whence it may be inferred that their tenets are Jewiſh. They are great lovers of heat, having always a large charcoal fire burning when they are offering up their worſhip, ſuch as it is, to the Deity. Marriage being, it ſeems, their abhorrence, they permit the males and females to mix helter ſkelter with each other. The diſciples increaſe very faſt.

Aug. 10. On Friday night a preſs-gang, conſiſting of two officers and eighteen ſeamen, were apprehended by the conſtables and watchmen, aſſiſted by ſome of the city patrole, in the pariſh of St. Sepulchre, in this city. They were all lodged in Wood-ſtreet Compter, and on Saturday morning were examined before the lord mayor; and it appearing that they had committed many violent aſſaults with their cutlaſſes, &c. but none within the liberties of the city, his lordſhip therefore ordered them to be taken before the fitting magiſtrates for the county.

Aug. 12. It is almoſt unneceſſary to point out to the reader, that there is ſomething very lowering at preſent, in the aſpect of affairs in France. A very ſhort time will probably ſet forth to the world, the real cauſe of thoſe equipments in Spain, which were ſuppoſed to be deſtined againſt England.

If any thing ſhould be done on that ſide, there is no doubt but that the kings of Bohemia and Sardinia will alſo act; and over the troops of the latter, we underſtand that marſhal Broglio is to be appointed commander.

The Polignacs, who at the time of the revolution in France were obliged to fly with the reſt of the court party, are now ſettled in a little obſcure reſidence near Venice. There they drag on a ſullen kind of exiſtence, neither viſiting nor viſited by any body. Yet theſe were the people, whoſe violent councils brought France to her preſent very perilous criſis; but how different now the aſpect of their affairs from that time, when madame the dutcheſs had four gentlemen out of livery, in conſtant waiting upon her, and the candleſtick money alone to theſe ſlaves of ſtate, ariſing from the card-parties that met at her houſe, amounted commonly to ſeventy-five louis of an evening!

Captain Saliſbury, of the brig Margaret, arrived on Tueſday from Breſt, in 14 days; was there 18 days, during which time four ſoldiers, armed, were ſtationed on board his ſhips and two more conſtantly attended him on ſhore. When he left Breſt road, there were twelve ſail of the line, eight frigates, ſeveral ſloops, one armed ſhip, and one ſtore ſhip, all completely manned and ſtored; likewiſe eight ſail of the line more fitting out with all expedition, as the people worked even on Sundays.

Yeſterday diſpatches were received from Gibraltar, which were brought over in a French veſſel, arrived at Dunkirk from the Mediterranean. All was well at that garriſon on the 24th of laſt month.

A celebrated ſinger at Sadler's Wells, who was yeſterday evening ſeiſed by the Philiſtines (alias the bailiffs), was actually conveyed to the theatre in an empty butt, by favour of the clerk to an adjoining brew houſe; and thus, for a time, eluded the vigilance of his purſuers.

The game laws ſhould be revived, without loſs of time.—A correſpondent is at this time on a viſit, where the wheat, barley, clovers and carrots of all the neighbouring farms, are at the mercy of three or four hundred hares, which are preſerved in ſtate coverts for the amuſement of the Toney Lumpkin of the family. What a ſacrifice to ignorance and brutality! And what a ſubject of parliamentary conſideration.

CURIOUS LETTER.

A fellow ſome time ſince, who had been under ſentence of death in Ireland, but who was afterwards reprieved, wrote his wife the following letter.—The woman had heard of the ſentence, but not of the reprieve; and as he did not wiſh to cohabit with her again, he appriſed her of his ſituation, that ſhe might not expect a future connexion.

"My dear Mary,

"I was hanged yeſterday; father Moony prepared me for death, and I behaved like a good chriſtian.—Marry as ſoon as you can, that you may have ſomebody to protect you in the room of your deceaſed huſband,

"DANIEL MURPHY.

"Tralee, June 10, 1790."

BOSTON, September 23.

A New-York paper of the 15th inſtant, ſays—"We are informed, that the right honourable Viſcount Pontieves Gien, commander of the ſquadron of the navy of his moſt chriſtian majeſty, which viſited Boſton the laſt year, lately died at Martinique. We hope the intelligence is not authentic, though it has been told us as a fact."

The Spaniſh and Britiſh declarations were ſigned and exchanged at Madrid the 24th of July. John Bull grumbled hideouſly, abuſes the miniſtry, and ſwears that the Spaniſh ſatisfaction is not ſatisfaction at all. It has been agreed between the Engliſh and Spaniſh courts, that all warlike preparations are to ceaſe for three months—before the expiration of that time winter will effectually ſuſpend every naval operation in the European ſeas. It may be proper to obſerve, from our intelligence arrived by captain Davis, that the conceſſion made by Spain is only for the veſſels taken in Nootka Sound. The right of the Engliſh to trade on the north weſtern coaſt of North-America is to be the ſubject of future litigation. At preſent the conduct of Spain does not appear very humiliating, ſhe has but paid only for what ſhe has taken.—But the Britiſh nation muſt be greatly diſappointed, when they find that Spain is not to pay the expences of the Britiſh armament; and that the demand for the veſſels taken was only 200,000l. ſterling; whereas, the extraordinary expences of fitting the Engliſh navy for ſea, amount to near two millions; and after all, their fleet ſurveyed, does not ſeem to have been near equal in force to that of Spain, which was at ſea the 24th of July in the bay of Biſcay.

Sept. 27. Yeſterday arrived here the ſhip Mary, captain Gremardi, in 37 days, from Gibraltar.—This commander ſays,—That the Spaniſh nation have no ideas of a peace; but, on the contrary, they are ſtill making every poſſible preparation for an open, obſtinate war, early next ſpring.—And, that the Spaniſh fleet was then out upon a cruiſe.

REMARKABLE ACCIDENTS.

The following remarkable occurrence happened at Northborough on the evening of the 11th inſtant Mrs. Ruth Davis of that place had lived ſeveral months in a large houſe entirely alone. About five o'clock in the afternoon of the ſame day, a perſon went to the houſe where ſhe lived, and found her on the floor dead, having all her cloaths, from the loins upwards wholly burned off, the ſkin turned brown, the hands, breaſt, and ſtomach burned to a crip, but the lower part of her cloaths not much burned. From various circumſtances, it is probable, that while ſitting in her chair, with a candle in her hand, ſhe was ſeized with ſome fit, which repeated fits uſually intimidate, and that ſhe was thus burned, ſuddenly while ſitting, and at length ſhe fell out of her chair, whereby that was overſet. In this ſituation ſhe muſt have lain about ſix hours (as ſeems moſt likely) after ſhe was dead. The of the coroner's inquest was, "that as far as he was able to judge, she came to her end by some casualty, or by the immediate act and providence of God."

We hear from Stanford, in the county of York, that on Wednesday the 8th inſtant, as two young children, ſons of Dr. Aſaph Hall, were playing near a well, the youngeſt of them, about three years of age, leaning againſt the curb of the well, the upper board of which was nailed on the inſide, it gave way, and the child pitched in and fell twenty-three feet, when his head ſtruck the water into which he plunged, and immediately riſing received inſtantaneous aſſiſtance: Captain Ebenezar Hall deſcending into the well by the pole, ſeized the child before it could ſink again, and taking it into his arms was drawn up and reſtored him to his diſtreſſed mother; the child having not received the leaſt bruiſe or wound. The well was leſs than two feet in diameter, and ſtoned to the bottom. The parents and friends of the child, ſenſible of the goodneſs of Divine Providence, deſire that this remarkable preſervation may be made public.—Let this ſerve as a caution to all perſons to ſee that the curbs of their wells be properly ſecured.

NEW-YORK, October 12.

Captain Barnes, who arrived at Boſton, on Wedneſday ſe'nnight in 36 days from Ferrol, in Spain, informs, that the Britiſh conſul there, communicated a letter to him, which he had received from the Britiſh ambaſſador at the court of Madrid, in which was mentioned the conceſſion the Spaniſh court had agreed to, viz. to make reſtitution for the property captured in Nootka. The ambaſſador mentioned that he was doubtful whether this conceſſion would effectuate a reconciliation, between the two courts. Captain Barnes further informs, that at the time he left Ferrol there were very great preparations making for war—and that every thing in fact wore the appearance of an immediate rupture.

A gentleman of veracity lately from Niagara, acquaints us that when at that poſt, the garriſon were repairing the works, and putting them in the beſt ſtate of defence, that it was there reported the half pay officers in the Indian department were put upon the war eſtabliſhment of full pay, and that there was no talk of the weſtern poſts being given to their lawful proprietors (both by nature and treaty) the United States of America. (Albany Gazette.)

NEGOTIATION.

The commiſſioners of Vermont and New-York, are now convened in this city, to tranſact the important buſineſs for which they were appointed by the reſpective legiſlatures.—They commenced negotiations on Wedneſday laſt, but nothing has yet tranſpired reſpecting their progreſs.

Oct. 4. A London paper of the 19th of Auguſt, received by the ſhip Birmingham, from Briſtol, ſays, that the Britiſh fleet, conſiſting of thirty-one ſail of the line, under the command of lord Howe, had made the ſignal for ſailing; as the wind was favourable, it was ſuppoſed they had cleared the Channel at the date of the paper.

The captain of the above ſhip poſitively aſſerts that the fleet had ſailed.

Extract of a letter from Madeira, to a gentleman in this city, received by the brig Anne, dated Auguſt 26.

"I have only to add that a fifty gun ſhip and a frigate, are arrived in eleven days from Portſmouth, and ſay that the Britiſh fleet were ordered out in ſpite of the diſpatches from Spain, and that war was thought certain. The above two veſſels ſaw the Spaniſh fleet off Cape Finiſterre, conſiſting of thirty-two or thirty-three ſail of the line."

BURLINGTON, September 28.

A —— parſon, preaching ſome time ſince in Monmouth county, in this ſtate, ſaid, that the wicked and ungodly, when they ſhould come before the great tribunal, would have their mouths ſhut up like the frogs in dog-days—A gentleman preſent examined frogs at that time, and really found their mouths ſhut up ſo faſt that it was impoſſible for them to croak or make any noiſe.

HARRISBURGH, (Penſ.) September 21.

The following affecting accident happened a few days ago, near this place, in the family of Mr. Wormley. His ſon about ten years old, and another boy, went to a neighbour's for a barrow. In coming home, the horſes ran away, and the foot of Mr. Wormley's ſon, catching in the chains, he was dragged to death.—The firſt intelligence the unfortunate mother received of this melancholy ſcene, was the horſes running to the door with her little ſon dragging at their heels, deprived of life, and torn in a ſhocking manner.

PHILADELPHIA, October 5.

On Sunday laſt arrived the ſhip Apollo, captain Billings, from London, in a paſſage of 37 days from the Lizard.

Captain Billings informs us, that, on Auguſt 27, in lat. 48, 0, N. the Lizard bearing N. E. by E. diſtance 83 leagues, he fell in with the Britiſh fleet, and was boarded by the Berſieur's barge, in which came an officer to ſolicit a ſupply of poultry for Sir John Jarvis, as their departure from Torbay was unexpected, and notice for ſea ſhort. Captain Billings ſupplied them with what he could ſpare. It being almoſt a calm when in the centre of the fleet, was boarded and examined by the boats belonging to all the flag-ſhips.—One of the officers informed captain Billings that they had been from Torbay ten days, and that the fleet conſiſted of thirty-one ſail of line of battle-ſhips, nine frigates, two fire-ſhips, four cutters, and two briggs, the whole 48 ſail, all under the command of earl Howe, his flag then on board the Queen Charlotte; the fleet all day ſtanding nearly S. W. the wind at N. Capt. Billings ſaw a ſignal paſs through the fleet, at which all the ſhips immediately double-reefed their top-ſails, and at ſun-ſet another, when they all wore to the northward and eaſtward; he left them ſteering to the eaſtward under eaſy ſail; was likewiſe informed they expected hourly to be joined by the Dutch ſquadron. Captain Billings anchored at St. Helens, and ſaw four Dutch line of battle-ſhips at Spithead. Left St. Helens Auguſt 31.

LIST of FLAG-SHIPS.

Queen Charlotte, earl Howe; London, Sir Alexander Hood; Barfleur, Sir John Jarvis; Royal George, admiral Barrington; Princeſs Royal, admiral Hathorn; Impregnable, Sir Richard Biggerton.

September 7, in lat. 39, 55, N. long. meridian of Philadelphia, 47, 10, E. fell in with the ſloop Argo, of Bermuda, from Waterford, and bound to Bermuda, 28 days out, Jeremiah Best, maſter, who informed that he had ſprung his maſt, in the partners, and bowſprit outſide the ſtem.—Captain Billings ſuppoſes he went into Fayal, as he ſaw him cloſe under the land next day.

September 13, in lat. 40, 33, N. long. meridian of Philadelphia, 38, 32, E. fell in with the ſchooner Columbia, Elijah Potter, maſter, from Liverpool, bound to South-Carolina, 30 days out, all well, who informed captain Billings he ſpoke a ſhip from Bilboa, bound to New-York, who informed him of there being 42 ſail of line of battle-ſhips, with frigates, fire-ſhips and cutters, manned and ready for ſea, laying at anchor in the bay of Cadiz.

By captain Corven, of the brig Mary, who arrived here yeſterday in a ſhort paſſage from Corunna, we have been favoured with the following intelligence:

That on the 18th of Auguſt, between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock, a fire broke out in Madrid, and continued with ſuch progreſs, in ſpite of all efforts to prevent it, that, when the poſt left Madrid at twelve at night, there had been then burnt to the ground above 800 houſes, and the fire continued.

Same day was executed the Frenchman that attempted to kill the prime miniſter the 13th June laſt.

The 17th Auguſt a meſſenger arrived at Madrid from London; nothing had tranſpired on the departure of the poſt; but its conjectured, with ſome authority, that matters are near being amicably ſettled between both courts—The affair of Nootka Sound is ſettled to Great-Britain's ſatisfaction.

The Spaniſh fleet conſiſts of 35 ſail of the line, 16 frigates, 2 cutters and 6 brigantines—They ſailed from Cadiz the 21ſt of July, and were ſeen off Cape Finiſterre.

Oct. 7. Intelligence has been received here, from a channel that can admit of no diſpute, that there are twenty-five ſail of the line, with three admirals flags, ready for ſea at Breſt. Ten more are getting ready with all poſſible diſpatch, and a very ſhort time will convince the world that France is determined to take a decided part in the approaching war, that cannot be avoided.

Extract of a letter from London, Auguſt 12.

"We are at preſent neither at peace nor war, notwithſtanding that Mr. Pitt announced appearances of peace, ſtill very large contracts are within this day or two entered into for the navy; and the preparations are redoubled in all the ports."

Extract of a letter from London, dated Auguſt 12.

"Preſſing does not diſcontinue, though negotiations advance in favour of peace. It continues in order, probably, until peace is more certain, or to give more weight to negotiations on the continent. Spain conſents to reſtore the ſhips taken, and to give compenſation to the parties for loſſes, when aſcertained. The queſtion of right remains as undecided as ever. Spain has at laſt ſent a requiſition to the national aſſembly, to demand on what terms ſubſiſting treaties between the two countries are to be underſtood—a decided anſwer is not yet given—Spain intimates that ſhe muſt ſeek other connexions than the French if they do not come forth. Pruſſia and Hungary are come to ſome terms; and it is imagined that Ruſſia will, 'ere long be obliged to liſten to terms of peace—The late rally of the king of Sweden in the Baltic, after his defeat of July 4, has been much ſpoken of; on the 9th July, the Ruſſian gallies attacked him, the engagement laſted 24 hours, and the Swedes were victorious. It is not imagined that the fleets will engage again this ſeaſon."

Extract of a letter from Gibraltar, dated Auguſt 20.

"Our diſputes with Spain are, in our opinion, far from being ſettled, although a preliminary baſis is formed, and one or two of the principal ones already acceded to by the Spaniards; yet, as our demands will be numerous, and probably recur to former ones, which have lain too long dormant; and as the Spaniards ſtill continue arming, and have now at ſea, off Cape St. Vincents, a fleet of about 25 ſail, and we perfectly ready to commence hoſtilities, it is more than probable that war may turn up; in that caſe the want of agriculture will be felt, and the prices of wheat and flour may again take a riſe in different quarters."

Extract of a letter from Vienna, July 16.

"You would no longer know Leopold. When he firſt aſcended the throne, he was the ſweeteſt and moſt affable prince; he is now become a king, ſad, gloomy, nouriſhing chagrin, and inquietude; who keeps himſelf concealed from his ſubjects, and when he appears, preſents a ſpectacle of ſilent ſorrow.

"It is not without cauſe that he is thus altered. Since his acceſſion to the ſovereignty, cares of every ſort beſiege the ſteps of his throne. His vaſt dominions are a prey to the moſt alarming diviſions. In the interior parts, already the blood of the citizens begins to be ſhed; abroad, a deſtructive war conſumes his treaſures and his army, and he is at preſent threatened with the invaſion of an enemy full as formidable than all the others.

"It is eſtimated, that the preſent war has coſt Auſtria not leſs than ſeven hundred millions, and 200,000 men, carried off by the ſword and other diſeaſes, which purchaſe our ſovereign."

Extract of a letter from Boſton, to a merchant in this city, dated September 20.

"A veſſel is arrived here in 39 days from Gibraltar; by which we are informed that war is actually declared between England and Spain. The Spaniſh fleet, in number 70, is actually at ſea."

FREDERICK-TOWN, September 27.

On Thurſday the 2d inſtant, as captain John Hamilton, an inhabitant of New-Orleans, was proceeding on his journey to that place, about 40 miles this ſide of Staunton, he was inſtantly ſtruck dead by a flaſh of lightning. He was ſeen immediately after he fell from his horſe, (who eſcaped unhurt) by ſome people who lived in a houſe on the ſide of the road, and who procured a phyſician in a ſhort time afterwards, but every effort proved in vain.

A few days ago, a boy belonging to an inhabitant of this town, took it in his head to pay a viſit to ſome of his neighbours, in order to procure, (what, perhaps, he had gone without for a long time) a belly full of victuals—but, not meeting with ſucceſs in his travels, and a hungry gut preſſing hard to be relieved, (no matter with what) he made a ſnatch at a little boy's arſe, one half of which he immediately eat up, and left the other half as a warning to his neighbours—to be more generous with their beef, and take better care of their cloaths.

JOHN BOND, of Thomas,
Adminiſtrator de bonis non.

RAN away, four months ago, from the ſubſcriber's plantation, in Prince-George's county, Maryland, about three miles from Alexandria ferry, a NEGRO MAN called ANTHONY, four or five and twenty years old, about ſix feet high, bow-kneed, which gives him a weak countenance when walking, and ſtammers a little; he was formerly the property of one Raphael Boarman, living in the neighbourhood of Bryan-town.
